The year 2019 started with a surge in global financial markets driven by optimism over trade agreements and economic growth. Equity markets were led by the US and cyclical sectors such as technology, energy, small caps and commodities. Emerging markets also recovered, with strong returns in Brazil and Russia. Rates slightly declined as the US Dollar depreciated against the British Pound. Commodities traded higher, led by oil as well as metals and agricultural goods.

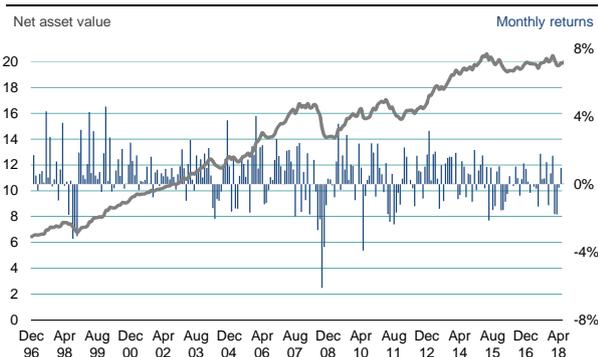

The portfolio ended the month in positive territory driven by gains across fundamental strategies, while systematic strategies deducted. The largest contribution came from Long/Short Equity managers, as all but one posted positive performance, with the best results stemming from US exposure. Similar observations are valid for the Event Driven and Relative Value allocations. Systematic strategies, in particular trend-following managers, partially gave back the gains earned in the previous month as the short positioning in equities impacted performance negatively.

Style allocation as of 31 January 2019 (25 Holdings)

The allocations above take into account that a single underlying investment can have exposure to multiple styles and have been rebased to reflect underlying fund investments only.
